Gleanings Here, There and Everywhere, But Mostly In Oxford County

BY LEONARD B. CHAPMAN.

THE NAME OF YORK.

Capt. George Berry came from Kittery to the part of Falmouth now known as the Seaboard district of Greater Portland. He purchased a large tract of land in the town and built his house on the easterly side of what is now called Ocean avenue, where the avenue crosses the westerly branch of Fall Brook, the cellar foundation still remaining. He was an active man, held town offices, but Indian hunting and military excitement seems to have been one of his delights. With his son Obadiah he built a large house upon the northerly side of the highway, now Ocean avenue, and the easterly side of the westerly branch of Fall Brook which still remains and occupied by Mr. John J. Frye the Portland dealer in agricultural implements. It is very pleasantly situated, but some years ago Mr. Frye had elaborate finish put upon the outside in place of meager trimmings placed upon it when built. Just a little while before this innovation I happened that way with a camera and have now two nice photos, from two points of observation, in its original appearance; Dr. William Berry Lapham who fifty years ago, taught in Bethel, the young idea how to shoot, and later wrote for the public eye interesting and instructive newspaper articles concerning the early history of the place, was a descendant of Capt. Berry as indicated by the Doctor's name.

The name of Capt. George Berry often appears upon the record pages of the distant past. In the year of 1750 he sailed, or passed up the Androscoggin river, and returned the same way, then made a plan of and described the river, which was transmitted to Boston where the record may be seen in the State archives, a printed copy appearing among the publications of the Maine Historical Society minus the plan. It is an interesting document, brief, but it contains the earliest allusion yet found to the Bethel Indian planting grounds and appearance of the river, the planting grounds comprising a hundred acres, and evidently located at the northerly end of the covered bridge over the Androscoggin near Bethel Hill where the work of subduing the forest was commenced by the Europeans about the year of 1750, though a saw mill was built at the foot of Mill Hill, a couple of years before this date, by order of the Board of Proprietors, as an inducement to those seeking homes, to purchase land; but the first clearing was made, as a natural consequence, upon the Indian planting grounds. But before presenting Capt. Berry's account of ascending the Androscoggin, I must preface by an extract from a letter of his dated April 7, 1750 and addressed to Lt. Gov. Phillips at Boston, Mass. After describing an encounter with the Indians at New Millshead (Windham) he says:

"During the time of the last war I transported three Whale Boats into Skagway Pond by means of which I was to the head of their Transport, but contrary of their Canoes, when they perceiving and discovering my party of car being there, deterred them from coming that way again, being the late War, and beg leave to mention to your Honor that I may also two Whale Boats allowed me to, whereby I may proceed to their highest Transport, and from thence over into the Androscoggin river which is the usual way of their making a descent upon us) and thereby I doubt not, prevent their return in the same way, and very probably by Ambushing cut some of the enemy off either in their Descent or Return, as without Whale Boats cannot possibly penetrate so far into the Country."

"When I received my Orders and Commission from Gov. Shirley I immediately enlisted my Company, which consisted of Sixty men and proceeded upon Action, but have never received the Bounty for the Soldiers or my part thereof, so, humbly ask your Honor to please Order it sent."

"Your most Obed. Hons."

Nothing that has happened in this vicinity for some time has given such a shock to the people as did the terrible auto accident which happened at South Paris last Friday at about five o'clock.

A telephone call for a coroner was our first intimation of an accident, together with the fact that three persons had been killed and two seriously injured. Later came the news that two Hebron students and a garage proprietor had been killed. The dead proved to be Harry Smith of South Paris, Miss Dorothy Grose, 17 years of age of Sumner, and Miss May Fairclough, 18 years of age, of Richmond. William E. Walker of Castine sustained a broken thigh and other injuries, and Forrest B. Conant of Hebron a broken wrist and minor injuries.

These young people were students at Hebron Academy and had accepted Mr. Conant's invitation to an automobile ride. Some trouble developed with the engine and they stopped at Smith's garage in South Paris to investigate the trouble, and Smith was trying the car for that purpose.

THREE LIVES LOST IN AUTO ACCIDENT

At South Paris. Two Young Men Will Re- cover.

Nothing that has happened in this vicinity for some time has given such a shock to the people as did the terrible auto accident which happened at South Paris last Friday at about five o'clock.

A telephone call for a coroner was our first intimation of an accident, together with the fact that three persons had been killed and two seriously injured. Later came the news that two Hebron students and a garage proprietor had been killed. The dead proved to be Harry Smith of South Paris, Miss Dorothy Grose, 17 years of age of Sumner, and Miss May Fairclough, 18 years of age, of Richmond. William E. Walker of Castine sustained a broken thigh and other injuries, and Forrest B. Conant of Hebron a broken wrist and minor injuries.

These young people were students at Hebron Academy and had accepted Mr. Conant's invitation to an automobile ride. Some trouble developed with the engine and they stopped at Smith's garage in South Paris to investigate the trouble, and Smith was trying the car for that purpose.

The engine on the Norway branch was coming to South Paris hauling two freight cars, the engine at the head but running backwards. Those who saw the accident say the auto was running at a swift speed, that Mr. Smith was intent on watching the working of the car and did not see the train until too late, although it is possible that he did avert to the right to avoid a collision. The engineer brought his train to a stop very quickly.

What happened was terrible and death must have been instantaneous. The bodies of the young ladies were thrown some distance and badly mangled, the automobile completely demolished and the body of Mr. Smith buried in the debris.

The bodies were taken, after the inquest, to the undertaking rooms. On Saturday morning Miss Fairclough's remains, accompanied by her brother, Prof. Fairclough of Hebron and Prof. Sargent, were taken to Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Grose who came from Sumner returned with their daughter's remains Saturday afternoon. Mr. Smith's remains were taken to Dennysville, Monday morning.

The two injured were taken to the Central Maine General Hospital on the Norway train. Dr. Stewart and Mrs. Conant accompanying them. Favorable reports are received from them and they are expected to recover in due time.

Mr. Smith has been in South Paris but a few months; was an industrious, cool headed man and those who know him can only account for the accident by believing that he was so interested in his work that he failed to realize his nearness to the crossing. He leaves a wife and two small children.

All of the student were members of the class '13, Hebron, and general favorites in the school.

After watching a demonstration, with the aid of a special train and the ruins of the automobile and listening to the evidence of a number of witnesses, a jury in charge of Coroner A. P. Bassett, has rendered a verdict that no blame was attached to the railroad.

Servant, George Berry.

When there was trouble between France and England, one or the other, or both, would send emissaries to this country, more particularly the French, to excite and exasperate the Indians through their Catholic priest against the English, the French having control of the St. Lawrence river, Quebec, Montreal, these along westerly of the English settlements to the Gulf of Mexico, with fortifications on the entire length of the English border. When there was no war between the foreign countries, the French, as a general thing, were friendly with the English settlers.

The Rev. Thomas Smith's diary, the first "congregational" clergyman of Portland, was begun in 1719, and closed in 1758, which lets in considerable

HARVEST SUNDAY.

Last Sunday, Sept. 29, was Harvest Sunday at the Methodist Episcopal Church. The decorations were so elaborate and effective that they deserve special mention.

Perhaps the first object that caught the eye as one entered the church was the motto, "Harvest Sunday," back of the pulpit. This motto was of small halved apples on green crepe paper. At each side of the motto were easels draped with strings of crab apples and ears of husked corn. There were also bouquets of autumn leaves and flowers, and tables holding baskets of grapes, plums and apples. The pulpit was decorated with strings of apples, also with flowers and corn. Larger vegetables—pumpkins, squashes, cabbages—and baskets of ripe tomatoes were displayed on the floor of the platform in various places. In front of the altar rail, and directly in front of the pulpit, was a large table on which were four baskets of apples. On each side of this large table were smaller tables with baskets of plums, grapes, and bouquets of flowers. The altar posts were adorned with strings of apples, and on the wide altar rail were bunches of grapes, sprays of crab apple, and flowers. Branches of beautiful autumn leaves also decorated the altar.

Much taste and skill were shown by the decorator, Mrs. B. F. Fickett, who deserves special praise.

The pastor, Rev. H. F. Fickett, preached a very appropriate and interesting sermon from Deut. 26: 2, 10, 11.

This afternoon and evening the annual Harvest Fair and Harvest Supper will be held in Odd Fellows' Hall. There will also be an interesting "Baby Show" in the same building. Come down and see these dear little folks by paying only a nickel at the door. (This small price isn't intended to indicate the value of the babies, however.) Cake and cocoa will be served free. Look at the articles on the various tables at the fair and if there should be anything you care for, we shall be glad to sell it to you at a reasonable price. Of course you will want some of the harvest supper for only twenty-five cents, also homemade candy and ice cream. Everything on exhibition for sale, except the babies.

Light upon foreign wars and Indian and French molestation of the English, and a few quotations will not be out of place in this connection, preceding a more extended account of the work of Capt. Berry.

It must be remembered that when the Captain was in pursuit of the Indians at Sebago Pond and other places there was a war on between the English, French and other powers. An annotation note by the compiler of the Smith diary dated at Portland, Sept. 14, 1735, is as follows:

"The various skirmishes mentioned in the diary were the preliminary movements of the famous Seven years' war, better known in this country as the 'old French war,' which commenced on the continent in 1754, but was not formally declared in England until May 1756, in which England and the continent of Europe was involved, and was disastrous to all parties engaged in it, but England. It was substantially terminated in America by the capture of Quebec in 1759, but formally by the peace of Paris in 1763. England gained the 'victory.'"

"May 11, 1756, Capt. Milk with forty men; Capt. Hiley with a company and Capt. Skilkin with another went out in pursuit of the Indians. Capt. Berry is also gone with his scout."

"April 20, 1757, Joseph Cox, Hiley and others sailed upon a cruise for six weeks after the Penobscot Indians."

"June 2, 1757, Cox and Bailey returned, bringing with them the scalps of two men whom they killed, two canoes, oil, fish and feathers."

"June 18, I received $163 as my part of scalp money."

This has reference to Parson Smith's share in the Indian "scalp money."

"Oct. 18, 1759. The country is all in a state of confusion upon the surprising news of the capture of Quebec."

"January 10, 1760. I was at Penobscot the first time. (St. John's) Only the fort there."

"Sept. 10, 1760. The conquest of Canada by the taking of Montreal."

"February 17, 1763. A cessation of arms was proclaimed in Boston."

MURDOCK-THAYER.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Thayer of Dixfield was the scene of a most charming home wedding at high noon Tuesday, September 24th, when their youngest daughter, Florence Mae, was united in marriage with Burton Kimball Murdock, only son of Mrs. Harry Brown of this place. Rev. Ransom E. Gilkey, pastor of the Congregational church officiated, the double ring service being used.

The couple was unattended. Clarice Augusta Small, a niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. As the strains of Mendelssohn's beautiful wedding march was being played by Mrs. Lawrence DuPaul, sister of the groom, the bridal couple entered the parlor, and stood of a beautiful drawn rug, which was a gift, and made by Mrs. Ann C. Kimball aged 89, the groom's grandmother.

The decorations were very beautiful. In the corner of the parlor where the couple stood, was a back ground of cedar dotted with snow-drops; evergreens were festooned about the room and over the chandeliers, in which were clusters of white hydrangea blossoms. Potted ferns, white asters and sweet peas were artistically arranged about the rooms carrying out the color scheme of green and white. The front hall and stairway were entwined with evergreens in which were arranged pink hydrangeas, and bouquets of pink asters. The living room was decorated with evergreen and sweet peas.

The bride was charming in a gown of embroidered velvet over white messaline, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. A wedding breakfast was served immediately after the ceremony, after which the happy couple left for New York and Boston to enjoy their honeymoon.

The wedding gifts were numerous and beautiful, including linen, china, silver and cut glass.

Beside the immediate relatives of both bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Will Adams of Portland, and Miss Angie Frank of Gray, Maine, were present.

The bride and groom are both residents of Dixfield and have many friends here. They are both graduates of Dixfield High School. Mr. Murdock is also a graduate of Wilder, Vermont Academy, and has been a popular clerk in the local drug store of Guy O. Gardner for several years. Mrs. Murdock has been employed for some time in the office of the Forster Toolpick factory.

The congratulations and good wishes of their many friends attend them.

LARCENY CASE.

Joe Ayotte was arrested Thursday evening while at Cheney Opera House, attending the moving pictures, by Officer Williams. A warrant was issued for Ayotte on the 9th day of July for committing a crime on the 8th day of July. Andrew McAffrey and a friend of his were in bathing in Swift River and had left their clothes on the river bank. Young Ayotte passed along at this time and seeing the clothes laying upon the bank decided that he would go through the pockets and see what he could find of value. This he did and took ten dollars from one pocket and also one pocket book, from the other coat pocket he took some change and a pocket book. Immediately following this theft Ayotte left for parts unknown and did not appear in town again until last Thursday. The officers were notified of his presence and trail of him to the Opera House.

After being arrested he was locked up to the lockup and remained all night. The next morning Ayotte was arraigned before Judge McCarthy, who after hearing the evidence, deemed it wise to convict the prisoner and he was bound over to the October term of Supreme Court under five hundred dollar bonds.

Ayotte is at present under bonds for another similar crime, that of stealing a watch out of the pocket of an employee of the Oxford Paper mill.

PUTS END TO BAD HABIT.

Things never look bright to one with the "blues." Ten to one the trouble is a sluggish liver, filling the system with billious poisons, that Dr. King's New Life Pills would "expel." Try them. Let the joy of better feeling catch the "blues." Best for stomach, liver and kidneys. 25 cents.

STATE CONVENTION OF W. C. T. U.

The State Convention of the W. C. T. U. met with the Auburn Union last week. The weather was ideal, the delegation large and many friends of the cause of temperance helped to make large and enthusiastic gatherings, which were a real inspiration. There were large delegations from all parts of the State. Never was the W. C. T. U. better organized or its members more zealous and in earnest to preach and practice the Gospel of Temperance.

Mrs. Stevens presided with the same gracious spirit and brought to the hearts of all loyal white ribboners a message of cheer and one could not but be touched with the power of her deep consecration.

Miss Anna Gordon was present and while her especial work is with the young she is always helpful in all lines of work.

The report of the superintendents of the various departments showed the rapid growth in all lines of work. The author of "Thru Out the Life Line," Rev. Mr. Clifford, sang the hymn, giving also its history.

The welcomes from pastors, mayor and school supt. were hearty. Many visitors were introduced, who expressed their hearty sympathy with the work.

Mrs. Katherine Lunt Stevenson of Boston, State President of the Massachusetts Union, gave a most brilliant address Thursday evening. The musical director, Mrs. Sarah Munroe Hall-Herrick, had charge of the music.

Mrs. Stevens was re-elected and all of the general officers. The National Convention meets in Portland, Oregon, this month. Oxford County has the honor of sending two of the delegates out of thirteen, Maine's representation, Mrs. E. A. G. Stickney, Oxford Co. Pres. of the W. C. T. U., and Mrs. George Morton of South Paris.

The World's W. C. T. U. will meet in Brooklyn in 1913.

The State Convention of 1912 will always be remembered as one of great helpfulness and deep interest.

The hospitality of the Auburn ladies was most hearty and gracious.

OBITUARY.

Miss Ellen Louise Owen of South Paris died on Monday, Oct. 23rd, at the Central Maine General Hospital, Lewiston, where she had been for the past six weeks. Miss Owen's condition was considered serious, but her death was unexpected. She was the daughter of the late Edward and Octavia (Young) Owen, and was 47 years of age.

Being left an orphan she was kindly cared for in the home of the late Reuben Whitman of Westbrook. But for the past twenty-nine years she has enjoyed the affection and privilege of a home with Mrs. A. L. Tabby, living with her before and since her marriage. Always delicate in health of quiet and unassuming manner, she chose to spend her life largely in the retirement of home. Yet she made many friends who loved and respected the nobility of her character, and will mourn with her home family in mourning her death.

Miss Owen is survived by two aunts, Mrs. John W. Whitman of Mechanic Falls and Mrs. Elizabeth Stearns of Cambridge, Mass., and one nephew, Clarence L. Bidion of West Paris.

Her funeral was held on Wednesday at 1:30 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tobbs, and was quite largely attended. Rev. A. T. McWhorter, pastor of the Congregational church, which she attended, spoke comforting words, taking as a basis of his words the Cret. Psalm. Mrs. H. E. Wilson sang the appropriate selections. There was a large procession of beautiful flowers. The interment was in the Kinsley lot in Riverside Cemetery.

How She Cured Her Husband

"For five years my husband suffered with his stomach. The medicine he took only gave relief for a while, nothing cured, writes Mrs. Sarah Baker of Nottingham, Mo. 'Our merchant bought some of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He gave us some of them and I wanted my husband to try them. He said it would do us good. His stomach had been troubling him worse than ever. At last on Friday I told him if he would not take those tablets I was going to send for a doctor, and he said he would take them. By Monday he was the other man. The blues were gone, no more trouble with his stomach, and the best part is that the trouble has not returned. I cannot praise Chamberlain's Tablets too highly.'"

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Reveries—A Column
Dedicated to Tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

HOPE ON, TOIL ON,
Oh, my brother, are you weary?
Does the way seem long and dreary?
That leads up to the new era?
You have pictured in your dreams
Is your portion one of sorrow?
Yet be brave and strive to borrow
From the glory of the morrow
That beyond your vision gleams.

"Never!" Cease the wall of "never,"
For the race goes on forever
Up the highway of endeavor
To the heights that onward glow.
There is no room for despairing;
But for action and for daring
And for helping and upbearing
One another as we go.

There are lives that we may brighten;
There are burdens we may lighten;
There are joys that we may heighten;
There are wounded hearts to bind;
There are fetters to be broken;
There are blessings to be spoken;
Let us give them as a token
Of the love we bear mankind.

See, a golden bow is bending
Over us, its glory lending Unto us, a message sending
That the world is moving on,
From its ancient moorings drifting,
While the tides of thought are shifting,
And the shadows are uplifting
From the gateways of the dawn.

Oh, my brother, cease complaining!
See, the night of wrong is waning,
And the king of right is reigning,
And the flag of hope's unfurled.
There are evils left for righting,
There are battles left for fighting,
There are beacons left for lighting
To illuminate the world.

Better days are breaking o'er us;
From the nearing goal before us
We can hear a joyous chorus Wafted o'er the years to be;
Through the portals, open swinging,
Notes of sweet and rapturous singing
Down the Future's aisles are ringing
From the anthems of the free.

Deaver News.

THE ADAPTABLE GIRL.

Washington Irving, on being asked by a mother how to educate her daughters, replied, "Madam, teach them to be easily pleased."

How many young girls seem to believe that the sole aim and object of their education is to enable them to criticize their neighbors and find fault with their surroundings!

The refined, well bred girl is not difficult to please, either with people or circumstances. She adjusts herself with quiet grace to sharp corners and square corners, as well as to comfortable round ones, and smooths a rough temper with just as much ease as she wakens a dull one into life and good.

SUFFERED

For Fourteen Years, Restored
To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elgin, Ill.—"After fourteen years of suffering everything from female complaints, I am at last restored to health.

"I employed the best doctors and even went to the hospital for treatment and was told there was no help for me. But while taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I mentioned its use until I was made well."

—Mrs. Henry L. Linscomb, 743 Adams St., Keosauqua, W. Va.—"I feel it my duty to write and say what Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female weakness and at times felt so miserable
I could hardly endure being on my feet.
After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following your special directions, my trouble is gone.
I feel free to express my thankfulness.
I recommend your medicine to all my friends."

—Mrs. G. B. Whittington.
The above are only two of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which clearly what great things Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for those who suffer from women's ills.
If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a humor. This tactful girl never goes to work with a shovel and tongs to make her friends believe that they are all wrong, but with a look, a word or a smile she simply convinces them she is all right.

"I am sorry we cannot invite Myra Thacher to join our sketch club," said the president of the club the other day, "but last summer, when we invited her to the mountains, she spoiled the enjoyment of the whole party."

"You wouldn't believe such a sweet, pretty looking girl as Myra could be so disagreeable. Why, she complained of everything! The roads were too long and the mountains too high and hard to climb, and the woods were brushy. The house we stopped at was uncomfortable, and the people stupid, and the beds were hard. The windows were so loose in their frames they rattled and kept her awake nights, and the wasps disturbed her day times. She couldn't eat oatmeal without thick cream and had a headache if she went without hot cakes and maple syrup for breakfast. I think any one like that ought to stay at home, don't you?"

"Kitty Litter was just the reverse, but Kitty had travelled a good deal and expected some hard places—the harder the place the more fun Kitty would get out of it. She could find pleasure in such simple things, too, and made every one of us forget how tired we were in her delight over a bunch of wild flowers or the color of the sunset."

"When the fog shut off every fine view, she would paint the old clock or the straight back rocker of the dear mother. If a rainy night made it dull, she would draw us all together around the great open fire and listen to an account of our 'experiences' with as much interest and sympathy as if it were some delicious chapter out of a story book—and so it was. Oh, Kitty is just a splendid girl! We always want Kitty, because she brings good times right along with her."
